Transcript: E-Ready Sites: Spotlight on Albemarle, VA

Hi, my name is Giselle Curtis, and I'm on the economic development team at Dominion Energy. Today, we're here in North Fork UVA Discovery Park in Albemarle County, and

00:00

we're here to speak with Emily Kilroy, Director of Economic Development. As an economic developer, I know that successful economic development is never a one-person job. It takes strong partnerships, and one of the most important is our relationship with Dominion Energy. When we're recruiting a new business or supporting an existing company's expansion, we need partners who understand the community, respond quickly, and can help us solve challenges. When a company is considering where to invest, expand, or create jobs, access to dependable, affordable power can be a deciding factor. Dominion Energy does exactly that. From understanding a company's power needs and identifying infrastructure requirements to helping us evaluate sites and meet project timelines, our utility partner is at the table with us from the very beginning.

00:17

Utilities bring more than electricity to the table. We bring technical expertise, infrastructure planning, site readiness, and a deep understanding of what it takes to power growth.
