

Justin: I feel that Dominion, as a company, is very prepared for the storm. We take the necessary precautions to go ahead and go through this. Pretty much all year we're talking about the things we need for upcoming storms and stuff like that, but we have a plan and I think we're very prepared.

[How much gear do you carry?]

I think that, you know, by time you have the harness on, your hardhat, your gloves, your sleeves, and all your tools, and especially if you're climbing a pole, some of this stuff can weigh up to 20-25 pounds, but you know at the end of the day when it's all said and done and you're soaking wet and it feels like a hundred.

[What's the best part of the job?]

It's a great feeling just knowing that you've helped everybody out. You know, you see everybody run out once you get the lights on and the kids come out, it makes you have a sense of pride, you know, for your job and it really means a lot to us when the customers, you know, appreciate it.
