

Debbie Pennell: Since it was his birthday and Christmas coming up, we're always at a loss what to get him. He will not tell us anything he wants. And I just said, "How can I get him something with Dominion Energy."

(a group of people walk into a dominion facility and shown around)

He turns 90 saturday, he's been wanting to do this for quite some time and I never thought that he would live to do it. It's just awesome. Dominion is his whole life and when he went to war, the job was kept and that was security, raising a family, that when he came home he would still ahve his position.

(the veteran blows out candles on a cake and is gifted with a picture of the office where he used to work)

They want to hire veterans, and oh the service that they have given us for our freedom. What a company to do that. It's awesome.

(veteran interacts with employees and smiles and laughs as he tours the building)

More than I ever imagined would happen. And literally I stood in this door and cried that he was going to experience this.
