

Having underground lines sounds great, but how is the Strategic Underground Program paid for? First, the Virginia State Corporation Commission reviews the cost associated with the program. Funding then comes through a monthly adjustment on customer bills. The Strategic Underground Program benefits all customers across our service territory because by placing the most outage prone lines underground, our crews can be much more efficient at getting the lights back on for everyone.