

This is a perfect example where we actually swap customers in order to eliminate a lake crossing.

We try to do those things to clean this service territories up for the betterment of the communities and again provide better service.

We just got a great relationship with Mid-Carolina Electric Cooperative, as well as all the electric cooperatives in the state of South Carolina.

(Radio Chatter) Gentlemen, cut the wire.

I want to see utilities working together. We're not competitors. We all live in the in the communities we serve.

It takes people collaborating, not working against each other, but working together.

And that's what's important about this is just making life better for our members and Dominion's customers.

This is a crowning culmination of that. And who comes out the better? Our customers, their members and the public at large.
