Dear Valued Dominion Customer,

Dominion Energy Virginia is committed to delivering reliable electric service. Now more than ever, we know that access to reliable, stable, competitively priced energy is important to all of our customers. As part of this pledge, we have developed several new projects which encompass many different reliability efforts and investments so that critical infrastructure and facilities are more resilient to help improve overall power quality. One of the reliability efforts we are focused on is the implementation of several Self-Healing Grid projects. These projects include a system-wide approach to identify outage-prone facilities in order to implement new and innovative construction technologies that will allow the existing overhead facilities to heal themselves and recover from power outages more quickly.

We are pleased to inform you that the necessary permits and easements have been secured and we are moving forward with the Self-Healing Grid project in your area. As weather permits, the construction process is as follows:

1. Scheduling and Site Preparation – Stakes and flags mark the proposed equipment placement. VA811/Miss Utility and survey crews will place markings showing the existing underground facilities. If you have any concerns with unmarked equipment or private facilities – please let the Project Manager know.
2. Construction – Trucks and equipment will be in the area throughout the construction process, weather permitting. We will make every effort to minimize impact and inconvenience to neighbors. Throughout the entire process, safety is a priority. We ask that you keep a safe distance from construction activity and equipment.
3. Property Restoration – You should not see much, if any, disturbance to private property; however, full restoration will occur when construction is complete.

Please be mindful that we are working hard to follow CDC guidelines regarding COVID-19 at this time. As social distancing is still recommended, please refrain from approaching crew members if possible.
