After more than five decades of service, the 5.4-mile electric transmission line between our Harrowgate Substation in Chesterfield County, and our Locks Substation in the City of Petersburg, Virginia, is at the end of its service life. Rebuilding this transmission line will meet current reliability and safety standards. We are proposing to replace the current wooden H-Frame structures with new weathering steel H-Frame structures.

In spring 2024, you may see our crews on foot or in vehicles in the right of way or using access roads outside the right of way. Line construction activities are tentatively scheduled to begin in fall 2024 and will conclude in early 2025.

We encourage you to visit our website, DominionEnergy.com/harrowgatelocks to learn more about the project.

We do not anticipate interruption to your electric service during this project and will continue to update you as activities progress. Please know we are dedicated to working safely and courteously in your neighborhood. Thank you for your patience as we work to complete this important reliability project.

Protecting the grid against natural and man-made acts is a top priority. You can learn more about our commitment to safety at powerlines101.dominionenergy.com.
