Jeffress 230 kV Transmission Line and Substation Project Update

At Dominion Energy, we are committed to providing the reliable, affordable, and increasingly clean energy that powers your every day. You are receiving this postcard because we are building a 230 kilovolt (kV) electric transmission line that will span from two new substations, Finneywood and Jeffress, in Mecklenburg County, Virginia. Construction on Finneywood Substation is underway and is expected to be complete by the end of the year. Preconstruction activities for the transmission line are expected to begin in June 2025.

During preconstruction, you may notice our contractors in and around the right of way installing construction entrances and delivering equipment. These construction entrances should not impact local roadways. You may also see our forestry team removing and trimming trees in and out of the new right of way that would be a danger to the transmission lines.

The construction for the new electric transmission lines connecting these substations will be completed in phases. Phase 1 construction is scheduled to last from this summer through spring of 2026. Restoration activities will take place from summer of 2026 through fall of 2026. The overall project is targeted to complete by early 2027.

We are dedicated to working safely and courteously in your community. No power outages are planned for this work. Thank you for your patience and understanding as we work to power your every day.

Protecting the grid against natural and man-made acts is a top priority. You can learn more about our commitment to safety at powerlines101.dominionenergy.com.
