

February 2016

Installing Systems Without Approval

Systems installed without approval are risking DER program approval because of oversizing, improper design, etc. Applications following the proper procedure are typically processed quicker because “out of procedure” apps require additional work on our part and are more likely to experience delays. For example, when a release comes in with no application to reference then that release is more likely to get lost.